COUNTY DOCTOR MATTER

Supervisors Make Recommendations for Change of County Doctor

1st. That the County pay to the County Clerk in quarterly payments, at the rate of $1,500 a year, the sum of $1,500 per annum to be divided by him among the doctors of the county pro rata according to the services rendered by each one, and that no patient shall be called a County patient except that said be O. K'd, by the supervisor of the township in which they live. This amount of money to be paid for visits at homes of the poor only.

2nd. That the County pay to the Jane McAllister Hospital, $1,500 a year for caring for the cases sent to the hospital by the doctors, and that hospital patients shall receive medical care free.

The above is the substance of the recommendation made by the Lake County Medical Society's special committee headed by Dr. Taylor, Libertyville, as a means of changing the care of the county poor, instead of having them under the care of one doctor, a county doctor, Dr. Brown having had the contract the past year. The chairman presented the recommendation to the board and a heated discussion followed. Dr. Brown had occasion to state twice "Dr. Taylor is falsifying, absolutely falsifying," when Dr. Taylor stated that Dr. Brown had approved the naming of the special committee at the medical meeting, Highland Park, when the committee was named to design a means of changing the care of the poor. President Dr. Roberts, Highland Park, Dr. Foley and Dr. Bouton, Waukegan, also addressed the board.

Officials of the new town, Lake Villa, presented a communication to the board asking that the board authorize them to spend certain money to make needed bridge improvements in the town, this permission being asked because of the quo warranto proceedings which have been started in Circuit court questioning the legality of the new town. If the proceedings should be declared invalid, then the officials would personally be responsible for bills incurred hence that request for authorization from the board. Referred to committee on bridges, power to act.

PLANS MODEL DAIRY NEAR ROCKEFELLER

Mrs. Rebecca Carlson Holcomb, who learned dairying on a farm in Wisconsin when she was a girl, will establish what she declares will be the model stock farm of Illinois at Rockefeller, Lake county, to be stocked with cows, of pure strain from the Island of Guernsey, says a Milwaukee dispatch. Her daughter, Miss Dorothy Holcomb, well known to society of the north shore, is to be assistant.

SPIRIT FRUIT FARM SOLD TO CHAS. CARPENTER

The transfer of the Spirit Fruit farm at Wooster Lake, Grant township, was recorded in the recorder's office Tuesday. The consideration being $36,000, the deed being to Charles Carpenter. This is the old Beilhart colony place. It had been known for some time that a sale was contemplated and, with its consummation, it means that the colony established by Jacob Beilhart will at once depart from Lake county. There are 260 acres in the farm which, had not Beilhart died, promised to be one of the most unusual colonies in the world.

The feature of the community was that the members did not believe in marriage, their belief being that relations should be based on love only.

Lost Money by Dishonesty. Some years ago, when silver had a much higher value than at present and the Mexican dollar was worth intrinsically about 95 cents, a counterfeit Mexican dollar came into the possession of the United States assayers at the Philadelphia mint. They assayed the coin and found it to be worth intrinsically $1.00. It seems that the mine from which the counterfeiters got their metal produced silver that was strong in gold. Thus the forgers lost money by making counterfeits.

Remains of Old Civilization. Scattered throughout the Caroline Islands, notably at Ponape and Lelo, are massive ruins, one of a sort of Venetian, whose origin is wrapped in mystery. Hundreds of acres in some localities are covered by the remains of walls, canals and earthwork of a stupendous character. There are old roads paved with stone blocks, ancient stone platforms, and on the lagoons, ruins of what were once fish walls. The islands offer a rich field for the archaeologist.

MOTOR BOAT OWNERS PAY FINES

U. S. Custom Inspector Arch
McArthur Finds Many are Violating the Laws

FINES ASSESSED ARE HIGH

One Hundred Dollars Lowest Fine and
This Can Reach as High as Five Hundred Dollars or More

Motorboat owners in the Fox River region in Lake county are finding out that it is quite a serious matter to violate the government provisions with regard to their boats. Within the last week or two several owners of boats have been fined from $100 to $200 for violations. The following lakes are included in the Fox river region: Pistakee bay, Fox lake, Long lake, Pottsville lake, Grass lake, Lake Marie, Bluff lake and Channel lake.

Following are violations which are quite common in the lake region and for which several motorboat owners have been fined.

1. Running at night without lights.
2. Not being properly equipped with life preservers.
3. Not having proper fire extinguishers.
4. Not being provided with a whistle.
5. Not being provided with a bell.

Arch McArthur of Waukegan, United States custom inspector, has made several trips into the lake region already this spring and has boarded many of these small crafts. His reports have been sent to Washington and in cases where he found violations the owners of the boat were promptly fined. Each of the above named violations constitutes a separate offense for which a penalty of $100 may be made. Thus, if the owner of the boat had none of the equipment required by the laws he would be subject, to a fine of $600.

Most common violation, according to inspector McArthur, is that of not having proper fire extinguishers. That boats are not so equipped is more a matter of carelessness than anything else because of a good sized pile of salt and sand, labelled "for fire extinguishing purposes," constitutes a proper extinguisher and is passed upon favorably by any inspector. This equipment cost but a few cents and the failure to have it might cost the boat owner $100.

The customs inspector paid a visit to the lake region last fall and warned the owners of the boats, telling them what they might expect. This apparently did not suffice, for he found several unprepared when he swooped down upon them the last two or three Sundays.

The owners of motorboats in Waukegan all have complied with the government regulations and are perfectly safe along this line. With regard to life preservers the government requires that one life preserver must be carried for every passenger on the boat. Overloading is another violation which is subject to penalty.

Foolish Self-Condensation. No comfort for the living or the dead can be won from vain self-condensation. No consolation can be gained while you nurse the imagining that a certain trouble might have been avoided. What we have to do is to try to escape from other troubles that are truly avoidable—troubles of a useless rambling, a present neglect, a listless apathy that will not reach forth for the good things still to be gathered.—Exchange.

Violin Notes Attract Mosquitoes. In some parts of India, where mosquitoes abound, it is impossible to play the violin because the music attracts the insects in great numbers. When the first notes are heard the mosquitoes swarm in clouds around the player and make the movements of the hand impossible.

COUNTY TREASURER MATTER UP

Supervisors Likely to Include
All Previous Treasurers
in Investigation

PROSECUTOR TO TEST CASE

Action to Test Right of Westerfield to Retain Interest on County Money and Inheritance Tax

Because States Attorneys Dady was not present, a motion made by supervisor Eger before the supervisors Wednesday morning instructing the prosecutor to begin suit against Treasurer Westerfield to test the legality of him retaining interest on county funds and inheritance tax fees, was withdrawn. Mr. Dady will be present Thursday morning at 10 o'clock when he will be asked to formulate a motion embodying Mr. Eger's ideas, and from the expression on the board the friendly suit to test the points of contentions in this matter, will be passed.

But, the motion, judging from what various supervisors say, will be wider in its scope before it is put. They state that they intend to make the investigation a test case to include not only Treasurer Westerfield's regime but also all previous treasurers who retained interest on funds (and every one did it), and their bondsmen as well.

The fact that the supervisors are thinking of including all previous treasurers and their bondsmen in this friendly suit, makes the matter one of wider importance and the consensus of opinion among board members is that if Mr. Westerfield is accountable for interest on funds and his bondsmen, then his predecessors are in the same boat, and if the present treasurer is held to the county for interest on his funds, then the county is entitled to recover interest in the former cases.

When the matter came up Wednesday King explained that he had been unable to learn how much interest is paid the county treasurer by banks which carry the accounts, but it will run from $3,000 to $5,000. Maether felt Lake county should wait to see how the test cases in Cook and other counties terminate before taking action. Eger explained the cases were not parallel, then made his motion but withdrew it when it was suggested that the state's attorney better outline the motion as he wishes it.

King suggested the whole matter was friendly, that therefore it might be planned to lay it before a court on an agreed statement of facts, because, in the usual routine it would take a year for disposition.

SLAVE-HOLDING AMONG ANTS

Custom Has Long Been Known, and Method of Procuring Such Servants Shows Intelligence.

Many of the large ants are slaveholders, and curiously enough, the slaves are almost black! When a colony of ants requires slaves a regular army is formed, skirmishers are thrown out and scouts are sent ahead to discover a nest of black ants and look over the ground. The invading army is composed entirely of warrior ants, with powerful jaws, quite different from the common workers. When the nest of the intended victims is reached a fierce battle at once takes place and many are killed and wounded on both sides. The more powerful invaders are always victorious, however, and entering the nest of the vanquished blacks, they rob it of eggs and pupae, which they carry off to slavery in their own home. The returning victors are welcomed upon their arrival with various manifestations of joy, and the young of the defeated foes are taken within and carefully tended until fully grown. Strangely enough, the slaves thus obtained are willing and obliging servants, doing all the harder work of the community, even to feeding their captors. Indeed, some species of slaveholding ants are incapable of feeding themselves and if it were not for their slaves they would die of starvation, even in the midst of plenty.—From "Book for Young Naturalists," by Alpheus Hyatt Verill.

CASHES FORGED CHECKS

Discovery of Libertyville That Checks on Fence Co. are Forgeries

Discoveries that forgeries of checks of the American Fence company at Libertyville were discovered Monday and as a result the company has engaged Chicago detectives to try to locate Frank Clarke and Robert McFarland, two workmen, who went to work in the factory about ten months ago.

These men left the factory Friday last and were seen in the village as late as Wednesday. Since then they have not been seen.

Friday S. D. Zook, superintendent of the factory, happened to be in the Lake County National bank when the company's balance was overdrawn. Zook insisted that it could not be and the president produced checks which the bank had honored. In glancing through them Zook found several which were not countersigned by him, that is, the signature under the rubber stamp, he declared were forgeries. Investigation showed that someone had procured the stamp and had forged his name to checks which already aggregated over $300 and it is feared more may be located.

The bank at once sent the forged checks to Chicago experts who declare they were such perfect pieces of work that they could not distinguish them from the original.

Inquiry about the city showed that Clarke and McFarland had cashed the company's checks about the place before they left and that is what points suspicion to them. Chicago detectives were told of the forgeries and the men are being sought. Both are machinists.

SAVED FROM DROWNING

Singer at Fox Lake Rescues Two People
Last Week

"Bob" Dailey, a well known singer who holds forth at the Colonial Casino at Fox Lake, proved himself quite a hero one evening last week when he plunged into the waters of Nippersink lake and rescued two persons who were in imminent danger of drowning. There is a narrow turbulent creek connecting Nippersink and Pistakee lakes which flows under the railroad bridge, maintaining an exceedingly swift current.

It seems that two persons, a man and a woman, seated in a row boat were using this treacherous stream as a means of passing from one lake to the other and when they arrived at the bridge the boat suddenly shifted from its course, turning crosswise, dumping the occupants into the water, while the boat proceeded down the stream toward Pistakee lake. They had the good fortune to be able to come in contact with the supports of the bridge; hanging on for dear life while the swiftly flowing water held their bodies almost in a perpendicular position. Mr. Dailey succeeded in capturing the boat and endeavoring to row up the stream against the current and rescued the persons from their perilous position, but the boat being partly submerged promptly sank under his weight and he was compelled to swim to shore and enter the water from a position above the bridge and swim down to the persons to be rescued. Grabbing the man he advised the woman to hang on to him and after a heroic struggle he finally towed them to shore.

Mr. Dailey was rescued by a passing boat and taken to the shore. The man and woman were taken to the hospital and are now recovering.

OVERWORK BRINGS OLD AGE

No Human Being Was Meant to Labor on and On Without the Proper Rest.

Industry's a fine thing, but a virtue may easily run to seed and become a fault. And don't work too fast. Don't rush. Take things quietly and steadily. Don't excite yourself over every little trifle. Don't be restless and impatient. It is the mean and petty traits of character very often that bring lines and wrinkles to the most open face—the small spite, the petty jealousies. They have a knack of steadily and surely eating up all that is sound and wholesome in the character. And as moral life reacts physically, premature age comes on with all its undesirable signs. Keep your temper under control. A burst of passion often does one incalculable harm. It jars the nerves and upsets the whole constitution. Very hysterical people are frequently quite prostrate for days after an outburst of temper.

Wrinkles are often caused by facial contortion—manerisms, like constantly lifting the eyebrows, when talking, frowning when in thought, twisting the mouth up and that sort of thing. Try to cultivate the reposeful face. It need not be wooden or expressionless. Not a bit of it. But talk with your mouth not with every muscle of your face.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

BURNED WHILE FIGHTING FIRE

Mrs. Herman Meyers of Fox
Lake is Burned in Saving
Husband's Boat House

ROLLS HERSELF IN CREEK

Clothes Caught Fire as She, Single Handed, Attempted to Save Property
Which was All Ablaze

Fire caused much damage in the plant in the Fox Lake Boat company at Pistakee Lake Thursday noon and it is said that the whole plant would have been destroyed excepting for the heroism and thoughtfulness of the wife of the owner of the plant, Mrs. Herman Meyers, who is now in a Chicago hospital being treated for injuries she suffered in fighting the blaze.

The fire was caused by an explosion of gasoline in the factory of the company and the owner's wife happened to be near at hand and she started to save the building. Immediately the woman's dress caught on fire and in order to save her life she rushed into a creek, rolled in the water and returned to combat the fire but again she saved herself by using the creek.

All this time she was unable to make use of the fire hose which was connected with the power engine which supplies the factory with water. She remembered that her husband had blocked up the entrance therefore she knew that to get pressure, she must get the pipe opened so that water could be obtained. This done she was able to get water through the fire hose. But it took time and the fire gained good headway before help arrived.

Mrs. Meyers was taken to her home after the fire had subsided refusing to leave before then. It was found her burns were serious although not necessarily fatal. She was rushed to a Chicago hospital where she is being cared for.

The Meyers home is about 400 feet from the factory. The workmen had all gone to Fox Lake, to repair some boats. The company makes no boats, devoting its time to repair work.

The Fox Lake fire department was called to the scene later but it is said they could do little to help save the buildings which were laid in ruins before the fire was finally controlled.

Church Notes

All those attending the pipe organ recital will be given a beautiful souvenir program, containing not only the program of the evening, but also the special program arranged for the following Sunday.

Mr. Ernest O. Todd, who has been engaged as soloist for the pipe organ recital here on Saturday evening, July 5, has for some time been prominent in musical circles as tenor soloist. He has had a wide experience in oratorio and concert field. He is a member of the faculty of the Bush Temple Conservatory. He is Director of Music and soloist at the Ravenswood M. E. Church (one of the oldest organized choirs in Chicago.) Mr. Todd's voice is lyric in quality and he is equally at home in Oratorio or Recital. In the latter field his interpretation of ancient and modern ballads has brought him into prominence.

Very Many Like Him.

Sometimes children are more observant than they are credited with being. Little Rob's mother, for instance, was telling a visitor how "masterful" another neighbor was in his home life when Rob, unnoticed beside her, put in his little ear. "I don't think Mr. Tate is so awful bossy, mamma," he remarked suddenly. "Course he does a lot of talking, but he never makes Mrs. Tate do a thing she doesn't want, I've noticed that."

Only Changes Needed.

The other day my 6 year old brother, who has a fat chubby hand, was trying on my kid gloves. He found they were too tight for him and when asked if he could wear them he said: "No, but if some of the too long side was on the wide I could wear them."—Exchange.

CHAPTER I.

OUR cowboys inclined their bodies over the barbed-wire fence which marked the dividing line between the Centipede Ranch and their own, staring mournfully into a summer night such as only the far southwestern country knows. And as the four inclined their bodies, they strained their ears, after the manner of listeners who feel anguish at what they hear. A voice, shrill and human, plored the night like a needle, then, with a wall of a tortured soul, died away amid discordant rasplings: the voice of a phonograph. It was their own, or had been until one over-confident day, when the Flying Heart Ranch had staked it as a wager in a foot-race with the neighboring Centipede, and their own man had been too slow. As it had been their pride, it remained their disgrace. Dearly had they loved, and dearly lost it. It meant something that looked like honor, and though there were ten thousand thousand phonographs in all the world there was not one that could take its place.

The sound ceased, there was an approving distant murmur of men's voices, and then the song began: "Jerusalem, Jerusalem,

Lift up your voice and sing—"
Higher and higher the voice mounted until it reached again its first thin, ear-splitting pitch.

"Still Bill!" Stover stirred uneasily in the darkness.

"Why'n't they don't they keep her wound up?" he complained. "Gallagher's got the soul of a war-hog. It's criminal the way he massacres that hymn."

From a rod farther down the wire fence Willie answered him, in a boy's falsetto:

"I wonder if he does it to spite me?"

"He don't know you're here," said Stover.

The other came out of the gloom, a little stoop-shouldered man with spectacles.

"I ain't noways sure," he piped, peering up at his lanky foreman.

"Why do you reckon he allus lets Mrs. Melby pester out on my favorite record? He done the same thing last night. It looks like an insult."

"It's nothing but his ignorance," Stover replied. "He don't want no trouble with you. None of 'em do."

"I'd like to know for certain," the small man seemed torn by doubt. "If I only knew he done it a-purpose, I'd git him. I bet I could do it from here."

Stover's voice was gruff as he commanded:

"Forget it! Ain't it bad enough for us fellers to hang around like this every night without advertising our idleness by a gun-play?"

"They ain't got no right to that phonograph," Willie averred darkly.

"Oh yes, they have; they won it fair and square."

"Fair and square! Do you mean to say Humpy Joe ran that foot-race on the square?"

"I never said nothin' like that whatever. I mean we bet it, and we lost it. Listen! There goes Carara's place!"

Out past the corral steamed the nouncement in a man's metallic syllables:

"The Baggage Coach Ahead," as sung by Helena Mora for the Echo Phonograph, of New York and Pa-a-ri-ri!"

From the dusk to the right of the two listeners now issued soft Spanish phrases.

"Madre do Dios! The Baggage Car in Front! Tadora Mora! God bless 'er!"

During the rendition of this affecting ballad, the two cowboys remained draped uncomfortably over the barbedwire barrier, lost in rapturous enjoyment. When the last note had died away, Stover roused himself reluctantly.

"It's time we was turnin' in," he called softly. "Hey, Mex!"

"Si, Senor!"

"Come on, you and Cloudy. Vamos! It's ten o'clock."

He turned his back on the Centipede Ranch that housed the treasure, and in company with Willie, made his way to the ponies. Two other figures joined them, one humming in a musical baritone the strains of the song just ended.

"Cut that out, Mex! They'll hear us," Stover cautioned.

"Cararra! This 'ting is break my 'ear," said the Mexican, sadly. "It seem like the Sonorita Mora is sing that song to me. Mebbe she knows I'm set out 'ere on cactus an' listen to her. Ah, I love that Sonerita ver-much."

The little man with the glasses began to swear in his high falsetto. His ear had caught the phonograph operator in another musical mistake.

"That horn-toad let Mrs. Melby die agin to-night," said he. "It's sure comin' to a hanna-caboo between him and me. If somebody don't kill him pretty soon, he'll wear out that machine before we git it back."

"Humph! It don't look like we'd ever get it back," said Stover.

One of the four sighed audibly, then vaulting into his saddle, went leaping away without waiting for his companions.

"Cloudy's sore because they didn't play 'Nava'jo,'" said Willie. "Well, I don't blame 'em none for omittin' that wardenance. It ain't got the class of them other pieces. While it's devised to suit the intellect of an Injun, perhaps it ain't in the runnin' with 'The Holy City,' which tune is the sweetest and sacrested ever sung."

Cararra paused with a hand upon the neck of his cayuse.

"'Eet is net so fine as 'The Baggage Car in Front,'" he declared.

"It's got it beat a mile!" Willie flashed back, harshly.

"Here, you!" exclaimed Stover, "no arguments. We all have our favorites, and it ain't up to no individual to force his likes and dislikes down no other feller's throat." The other two men he addressed mounted their broncos stily.

"I repeat," said Willie: "The Holy City," as sung by Mrs. Melby, is the sweetest tune that ever hit these parts."

Cararra muttered something in Spanish which the others could not understand.

"They're all fine pieces," Stover observed, placatingly, when fairly out of hearing of the ranch-houses. "You boys have each got your preference: Cloudy, bein' an Injun, has got his; and I rise to state that I like that monologue, 'Sitas on Fifth Avenue,' better than all of 'em, which ain't nothin' ag'inst my judgment nor yours. When Silas says, 'The girl opened her valise, took out her purse, closed her valise, opened her purse, took out a dime, closed her purse, opened her valise, put in her purse, closed her valise, give the dime to the conductor, got a nickel in change, then opened her valise, took out her purse, closed her valise—' Stover began to rock in his saddle, then burst into a loud guffaw, followed by his companions.

"Gosh! That's awful funny!"

"Si!" acknowledged Cararra, his white teeth showing through the gloom.

"An' it's just like a fool woman," said Willie; "they're born with it, the same as I was born to shoot straight with either hand, and the same as Mex was born to throw a rope. He don't know how he does it, and neither do I. Some folks can say funny things, some can sing, like Missus Melby; some can run foot-races, like that Centipede cook—"

Cararra breathed an eloquent Mexican oath.

"Do you reckon he fixed that race with Humpy Joe?" inquired Stover.

"Namo's Skinner," Willie observed. "It sounds bad."

"I'm sorry Humpy left us so sudden," said Still Bill. "We'd ought to have questioned him. If we only had proof that the race was crooked—"

"You can so gamble it was crooked," the little man averred. "Them Centipede fellers never done nothin' on the square. They got Humpy Joe, and fixed it for him to lose so they could get that talkin'-machine. That's why he pulled out."

Willie's face lit up with a gleam of hope.

"That's the way to do it," he said. "If we only had a chance to fix a race, we'd be rich in no time."

"I'd hate to think it," said the foreman, gloomily; then after a moment, during which the only sound was that of the muffled hoof-beats: "Well, what we gain to do about it?"

"Humph! I've laid awake nights agin' that out. I reckon we'll just have to git another foot-racer and beat Skinner. He ain't the fastest in this world."

"That takes coin. We're broke."

"Mebbe Mr. Chapin would lend a helpin' hand."

"No chance!" said Stover, grimly. "He's sore on foot-races. Says it disturbs us and upsets our equilibrium."

Cararra fetched a deep sigh.

"It's ver' bad 'ting, Senor. I don't feel no worse w'en my gran'mother die."

The three men looped onward through the darkness, weighted heavily with disappointment.

Affairs at the Flying Heart Ranch were not all to Jack Chapin's liking. Ever since that memorable foot-race, more than a month before, a gloom had brooded over the place which even the presence of two Smith College girls, not to mention that of Mr. Fresno, was unable to dissipate. The cowboys moped about like melancholy shades, and neglected their work to discuss the

GAVE FASHION A SETBACK

English Woman Put Sudden End to Men's Idea of Bringing Back Side Whiskers.

Woman's influence is still dominant in all well-regulated families. Not long ago a number of young Englishmen decided that the day of clean shaven man was over. They, accordingly, determined "to set an old fashion on new faces," that is, to grow side whiskers like those still worn by English men servants.

One husband went home to his wife, who had just returned from a visit to the country, quite unaware that she had heard of the new London fashion, and had planned a counter attack. He carefully arranged his pose for the entrance of his wife and alternately stroked his whiskers, or smoothed his stock as he stood before the fire. His wife entered. She looked calmly at her husband.

"James," she said, "your master has not arrived, I see. He is probably dining at the club. You may serve dinner at once."

The husband had a sense of humor. He walked from the house without a word, called his whiskered allies together and told them the story. The next day West end barbers were kept busy.

CREAM OF GOTHAM "SOCIETY"

Knickerbocker Group, the Most Desired and Sought After of Any Coterie in America.

To the true old New York Knickerbocker, all the modern world is a sham and a froth. For them there is no United States west of Buffalo; no one of any respectability lives above Fourteenth street; and to have been born poor and dishonest enough to have made a fortune is much less reprehensible than paying money for marrying a title. With them the chief virtue in life is to have been born rich and honest; i. e., in the "set."

These form the most exclusive circle in social New York. They see no one but each other. They have no country relatives, because the family has never been permitted to marry outside the little group. They refuse to recognize the perversity who have come in and are making things hum. In their eyes all American authors are dead and all living authors Europeans; hence they permit themselves no intellectual diversion. Their mental life is one of dead memories and living reproaches. Their social life is one of mediocrity and echoes.

Yet this group is the most desired and most sought after of any in America. Many a new millionaire would write a substantial check with alacrity to be invited to one of these shabby old downtown homes. Such invitations are sought for, prized and commented on more than any other.

It is comparatively easier to be presented at almost any European court, except the Russian and the Turkish, than to be properly presented to an old Knickerbocker family.

Use Bellows to Skin Goats.

Great quantities of Mocha goatskins are imported from Aden, on the Gulf of Aden, into this country, many skins coming from Africa. The Abyssinians and Somalis are considered the most expert in skinning goats. The former rarely permits his knife to touch the animal after killing and during the skinning process, and by the means of a bellows removes the skin in an excellent condition. Somali women are also very adept in this art and exercise great care throughout.

Moral Indifference.
If ignorance and passion are the foes of popular morality, it must be confessed that moral indifference is the malady of the cultivated classes. The modern separation of enlightenment and virtue, of thought and conscience, of the intellectual aristocracy from the honest and vulgar crowd, is the greatest danger that can threaten liberty. — Henri Frederic Amiel.

Effort Wasted.
"What makes me really mad," said the woman, "is to spend minutes, maybe hours, trying to get hold of a white hair that shows up on my head like a dazzling light, yet which is tantalizingly elusive when I try to catch it, and then when I do finally separate it from the brown hair and give it a vigorous pull, to find that I have snatched out a good brown hair and left the white one still shining!"

Does Memory Go on Strike?
Can the human memory go on strike, leaving the other tangible and intangible parts of the mental and physical makeup to continue their ordinary work-a-day routine? Will this explain the strange disappearances and wanderings about of men and women which occur so frequently?

Visible Evidence.
One day a teacher was having a first-grade class in physiology. She asked them if they knew that there was a burning fire in the body all of the time. One little girl spoke up and said: "Yes'm, when it is a cold day I can see the smoke." — National Monthly.

NEWS and GOSSIP of WASHINGTON

Says Goddess of Liberty Will Fall Some Day

WASHINGTON.—"Some day that goddess of liberty on top of the capitol is going to fall down and hurt someone. I know, because I was up in it."

Thus spoke Rodman Law, who calls himself the "human fly," while he was reclining on a bed in a downtown hotel waiting for a telegraphed remittance from New York, which was necessary after the way some friends of his had disappeared with his cash while he was climbing up the goddess' inside.

"All that bracing material on the interior of the statue is made of cast iron," continued the "fly." "It was put up there before anyone used steel construction, I suppose, and I scraped up handfuls of dust. I went all over the inside and I'll bet that if something isn't done about it there, will be an accident some day."

The "human fly" took the impending danger to the goddess about as seriously as he took the fact that his friends who accompanied him to the top of the capitol had disappeared with his cash.

Any old time he wants to go back and sit on Liberty's head he is going to do it, but he is going to make sure that his friends can be trusted with a "human fly" pocketbook before he gets up in the air between earth and sky, with no one but a press agent to keep the secret.

The "fly" went to the capitol in the afternoon with his false friends. He climbed up a column on top of the dome, using a piece of steel pipe as a rope to aid him in his efforts. Previously he had handed his pocketbook and valuables to his false friends who accompanied him. When he descended they had gone.

"I went all around the inside and saw the rust. It was very dark, and I used up a box of matches in there. Then I crawled up on the base of the statue. A 'cop' yelled to me to come down."

"When I slid down the cop pinched me."

A rap on the door interrupted this story. A bellboy handed in a telegram. It was money from New York, replacing that which the false friends had taken with them so hurriedly.

"Well, I guess I can have breakfast now. So long."

He Found Out What the Yellow Flag Was For

IT IS notorious that street railway companies in Washington, as in other cities, have a good deal to trouble with rail joints and with the street paving along the rails. The pounding wheels and the vibration of the track seem able to break down or break up almost any kind of pavement which the railroads lay. The result is that repairs are made frequently necessary.

For several weeks repairs have been making to the tracks of the Mount Pleasant cars along Connecticut avenue. Yellow flag has been piled high on both sides of the track. Strong men have been working there with sledge hammers, picks and other tools. At the end of the track, on the side of the repair work, has been quite a procession of flags, mainly red to warn of danger, but some of them green to indicate safety, and marking where teams or machines might pass.

At each end of the construction work by day flutters in more or less harmony with the red and green flags a yellow flag, and at night lanterns with yellow globes let their light shine there. The question was put to many fellow-travelers: "What does the yellow flag mean?" Day after day the answer was: "Give it up." "You got me now" or "It stands for small-pox."

Those yellow flags were getting on the scribe's nerves, and on one of the few pleasant days in early April he got on a car determined to pay an extra fare to find out the significance of those strange flags. He walked over to a stalwart colored laborer, who was cracking concrete in the excavation, and asked him: "What does that yellow flag mean?"

The man looked amused. There was pity in his eyes and his voice as he replied:

"Boss, dat am do sign fo' de kyars to go slow."

Simply crushed!

Duck on the Window Sill Known to Many People

TWO weeks ago attention was called to a duck on the second story window sill of a fine old house on H street. "Attention was called" is not a happy phrase, because nearly everybody who passes along that part of H street knows the duck.

In the previous story it was said that: "Perhaps the family living in the house will be able to explain it, and perhaps not, but the writer did not care to pursue the inquiry further than to make the necessary observation and notation."

The story of the duck is well told in the following letter, which was received a few days ago:

What Middle Statue of Buddha Said to Teacher

THREE Chinese students entered the Y. M. C. A. Educational institute not long ago to study, among other things, English, American history and geography. They are young men in whom the Chinese government is taking an interest, it having sent them here to acquire the English language in the shortest possible time. They haven't been here very long, but they're strong on English already, as will appear from this exclusive story, told by Myron Jermian Jones, director of education of the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Jones took the education of the three boys as a personal matter. He gave them all the time possible, and he gave them the plain language teaching and the highly polished courses in philosophy, psychology, sociology, etc., which are the great things of the West. He gave them a lecture that was able to get them to the point of their journey.

The boys did not stir a muscle, and Dr. Jones was totally at a loss to tell whether his efforts had made an impression upon those mute and immovable originals.

"Have I made myself plain?" he asked.

Three heads nodded.

"I should be glad to go over the ground again," he said, "if you are not quite sure you got what I was saying."

And then the middle statue of Buddha spoke.

"We rotcha, Steve," he said, "which is certainly making progress."

"Well Kept Man Decked With Gems" Is Typical Owner of Resorts in Gotham, Writer Asserts—Business Is Specialized.

New York.—Commercialization of vice in New York city is described in the first four studies of the social evil to be published by the New York bureau of social hygiene. The book, published by the Century company, is entitled "Commercialized Prostitution in New York City" and is written by George J. Kneeland, the chief investigator of the bureau, who was also the chief of the workers under the Chicago vice commission.

The report, which is introduced by a foreword by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., says 15,000 women of the underworld ply their trade in one borough of New York alone. It scores the low dance hall as a chief cause of vice. Poverty is given a secondary place as a cause. Mr. Kneeland holds that of ten women are victims in their ignorance of the agents of commercialized vice.

"It is idle," he says, "to explain away the phenomena on the ground that they are the results of the inevitable weakness of human nature; human weakness would demand far fewer and less horrible sacrifices."

"Most of the wreckage and the worse of it is due to persistent, cunning and unprincipled exploitation; to the banding together in famous enterprises of madams, procurers, brothel keepers and liquor vendors to carry on deliberately a cold blooded traffic for their joint profit, a traffic, but it added from which the girl involved procures at the most, with few exceptions, her bare subsistence, and that only so long as she has a trade value."

"Prostitution has become a business," Mr. Kneeland writes, "the promoters of which continually scan the field for a location favorable to their operations, and the field is the entire civilized world. No legitimate enterprise is more shrewdly managed from this point of view; no variety of trade adjusts itself more promptly to conditions, transferring its activities from one place to another as opportunities contract here and expand there."

"While keepers of houses are also procurers, there is a group of men who devote themselves solely to this work. These are the typical 'white slaves,' whose trade depends entirely upon the existence of houses of prostitution. The cadet has not yet developed into a professional procurer or keeper of a house. He enters the business when he either ruins a young girl for his future profit or becomes the lover and protector of a prostitute already in the business."

"The women who run houses have, as a rule, risen from the ranks. They were once street walkers or parlor house inmates, who possess unusual business talents. They have learned the secrets of the trade; they know the kind of inmates to get and where to get them. They know how to deal with customers and how to make them spend money."

"For several years thirty $1 houses of prostitution in the Tenderloin have been operated as a 'combine' under the direct control of 15 or more men. The individuals in question have been in business for many years in New York city as well as in other cities, both in this country and abroad. They buy and sell shares in these houses among themselves, and it is seldom that an outsider unless he is a relative, can break into the circle and share in the profits."

"The value of the shares depends upon the ability of the owners to maintain conditions in which the houses, being unmarked, are permitted to make large profits. "If a composite photograph is made of typical owners of vice, it would show a large, well built man about 40 years of age and 6 feet 6 inches in height. His clothes are the latest cut, loud in design, and fully pressed. A heavy watch is adorns his waistcoat, a large diamond sparkles in his necktie, and his chubby fingers are encircled with gold and diamond rings."

BIG FLYING BOAT IS FA

McCormick's Craft Covers More Than Mile a Minute in Hammondsport, N. Y., Trial.

Hammondsport, N. Y.—Harold F. McCormick's big flying boat, designed by Glenn H. Curtiss, was tried out here and proved successful beyond Curtiss' expectations. The new flying boat is large and heavy, as compared with previous machines of this type built in America. It has a spread of more than 40 feet and weighs, when loaded, considerably more than a ton.

The power plant consists of a motor weighing more than 300 pounds and developing 105 horse power. It was expected that the boat would be seaworthy, but not particularly fast. The trials proved that it would make more than a mile a minute flying in the air and about 50 miles an hour when used as a motor boat in the water.

Mr. Curtiss made the first trip, accompanied by L. A. Villas of Chicago and another flying boat owner. Within a hundred yards from the starting point the boat rose from the water and sailed gracefully down the lake.

It is said to be McCormick's intention to use the flying boat between his office in Chicago and his home at Lake Forest, 25 miles distant. The McCormick boat was taken back to the factory for the final touches and will be ready for shipment to Chicago within a short time.

FEWER ARE GOING ABROAD

Steamship Agents Blame Decrease of 30 Per Cent. Chiefly on the Recent Floods.

New York.—Up to May 5 the first cabin passenger traffic between this port and Europe was 357 ahead of the same period in 1912 west-bound and 135 bookings ahead east-bound. The second-cabin passenger traffic showed an increase of 15,000 west-bound and 2,434 east-bound from Jan. 1 to May 5 over last year.

Traffic east-bound from now on will be about 30 per cent. below last year, according to the steamship agents. This, they say, is chiefly due to the number of cancellations of bookings made in January and February by persons who were sufferers by the floods in the middle west and by the tornado in the Mississippi valley.

Generally the year of the presidential election is a poor one for foreign travel, but 1912 was a very good year. Cancellations have been made in the last few days not only on the older Atlantic liners, but also on the first-class bookings of the Imperator, Mauretania and Olympia.

The Atlantic steamship companies look to the middle west and the west for the bulk of their summer tourist traffic, and the sudden falling off in the demand for cabin accommodation and the cancellations came as a surprise to them. A few of the more optimistic agents hope that there will be a boom in the European tourist traffic later on, but it will have to come soon to have any effect on the trade.

Conducted party travel is also light, according to the various tourist agents, and there is not much hope of it picking up this year. The biggest party this summer will be the 1,000

FIND HISTORIC GRAVE

Flood at Battle Ground, Ind., Washes out Skeletons.

Jesuit Missionary and Indians Believed to Have Been Buried There in Seventeenth Century—Silver Cross in Bones.

Battle Ground, Ind.—Cuy Fisher, a farmer boy living near Battle Ground, Ind., stumbled on to a strange find a few days ago near the mouth of the Tippecanoe river that may be of considerable historic interest. Many small mounds of earth are to be seen in the neighborhood which is named for the battle of Tippecanoe between Gen. Harrison and Tecumseh's warriors. Some of these have been noted from time to time, and the red men have been found, but the latest is considered most important yet in the Tippecanoe district.

Recent high water entire canoe and washer was going Cat creek lay contiguous to the tippecanoe. Tippecanoe and Waverly after the water had receding found one of the larger of the mounds washed out. Uncovered by the waters but undisturbed were skeletons. The center one of the mounds was larger than the others, and upon it rested a heavy cross, known to antiquarians as the "Jesuit double cross."

The young man, after making these discoveries, dug lower into the spot and found a stone pipe, several handfuls of arrow and spear heads of stone, a curious copper ornament, two metal buttons and several other small stone articles, both implements of peace and war.

It is supposed by some that the larger of the five men—for all the skeletons have been determined as those of males—was a Jesuit missionary, while the others are supposed to have been Indians.

History tells of the burial of De La Salle, the French explorer who was in the Northwest territory in the year 1680, in the Mississippi river, after he had been disappointed in his venture of the Griffon, which he dispatched from the head of Lake Huron. The boat never returned from its voyage to Niagara and the Frenchman started on the long trip of 1,500 miles Canada, first going down the Mississippi for supplies in two canoes with an Indian hunter and four French companions. It is supposed that the skeletons found are those of the men who were in De La Salle's party or who met the Jesuit missionary, Marquette, who later went through the section.

It is known that Marquette was through that part of the country that some of the skeletons are those of the Marquette party and one of the skeletons of the Marquette party of the Jesuit's group of missionaries. Some have asserted the larger body is that of an Indian and not a white man, that he was the chief of a tribe and had been converted to the Christian religion by the Marquette party. The position of the body and its condition seem to indicate this, according to those holding the latter view of the case.

Red Hens Lay Enormous Eggs. Indiana, Pa.—Eggs of an abnormal size are being produced by Rhode Island Red hens of this section. A hen belonging to M. K. Queown of White township laid an egg which is 6 1/2 inches in circumference from end to end and 6 1/2 inches around the center.

progress. "It was a very big egg," said a woman who was with the child, "it was the custom of the olden times to bury the dead in public conveyances. It is now the custom of the olden times to bury the dead in public conveyances."

EXPERIENCE OF MOTHERHOOD

Advice to Expectant Mothers

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for her newborn child. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you want medical advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medical Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
